

ROOFTOP TAKES A TRIP on THE WAYBACK MACHINE

“In the past, the materials used for writing, the human labor of copying, the costs of disseminating and providing access to books, atlases, photographs, films and recorded sound were very high. The costs imposed limits on the rate of production, in effect filtering what knowledge and creative expression were accessible and to whom. The expense of maintaining vast and redundant stores of physical artifacts meant it was costly to collect them and invest in their long term access. The question had always been: What can we afford to save?”

Now, suddenly, those filters are gone and information travels at the speed of electrons, virtually free of friction. Now everyone with a computer can publish their own book, release their own movie, stream their own music, and distribute what is on their hard drive or smartphone across the globe instantaneously. The question today is: What can we afford to lose?”

Morning Circle

Rooftop is a K-8 public, alternative elementary school located in the center of San Francisco on two sites on the eastern slope of Twin Peaks. Our student population reflects the City's diverse ethnic background. Rooftop's academic program, which emphasizes student self-worth and self-learning, is well defined and innovatively presented by dedicated teachers. Programs in art, music, and drama are considered an integral part of the Rooftop experience. Student service to the school community is supported through various after school clubs and organizations. Rooftop has a special spirit and sense of community shared by children, staff, and parents. Students are encouraged to take positive risks and face challenges with confidence and optimism. Rooftop nurtures a strong home school partnership which values parents as the students' first and most important teacher. Parent participation is expected.

Rooftop is more than a school; it is a caring community. We celebrate our diversity and work hard to promote inclusiveness. When you volunteer, the school benefits from your help, your child feels proud to have you there, and you make adult friendships. Rooftop students flourish in this community of "extended family." Parent volunteers model life-long learning as they work alongside teachers to facilitate student learning. Research shows that students whose parents are regularly involved in the school setting have significantly higher achievement patterns than same grade age peers. Working parents, fear not. We are experts in matching school needs to parent availability. Our mentor family program-pairing new families with seasoned community members further assures successful participation by all.

For some children, their introduction to school when entering Kindergarten may be their first real experience of being a part of a larger community. You may find your child discussing "Rooftop Spirit" throughout the school year. This concept of school "spirit" is very important to our students, and the qualities that define this mindset help to make Rooftop a very special community. Sharing, caring, kindness, helping your fellow students, respect of individual differences, and responsibility for one's own behavior and actions — these are qualities that each Rooftop student strives to uphold.

Rooftop Alternative School

This poem was written by the Burnett and Mayeda Campus teachers.

I didn't want my life to be like a chalk mark in a rainstorm.

I liked school so much as a child,
I knew then I wanted to be a teacher.
It's in my body as natural as the blood that flows through my veins.

A time when my father could not,
A time when others can.
I started out to play for me and found out
I wanted to do it for them.

I see my life as a spiral.
When what I do comes back,
It feeds my spirit.

Worthwhile work.
To impact young people's lives in a way
That will support them
to reach their potential

Teaching offers many firsts.
The opportunity to start over,
Spontaneous laughter,
Inspiration,
And hope for the future.

The glow of power when eyes connect,
Shoulders straighten
and a slow smile develops.
"I am me," she believes.

To learn is to empower,
To teach is to love.

San Francisco K-8 Public Alternative School

Welcome to Rooftop!

Rooftop is a PK-8 public, alternative elementary school dedicated to serving its diverse ethnic student population through its strong academic program emphasizing critical thinking and self-learning. Programs in art, music, drama, and dance are an integral part of the Rooftop experience. Rooftop's spirit of kindness, respecting individual differences and taking responsibility for one's own behavior and actions are qualities that each student strives to uphold.
